Widow of Late King Oscar is Reported to Be In Serious Condition.

PROMINENT IN SWEDEN'S HISTORY

Has Been Companion to Her Kingly Husband and Is Much Loved By the People of Sweden.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Stockholm, Dec. 11.—The condition of the Dowager Queen Sophia is becoming much anxiety. Since the death of King Oscar she has been almost constantly confined to her bed. Queen Sophia of Sweden was born July 9, 1836, the daughter of Duke William of Nassau. It was at her grandmother's palace at Wiesbaden that the little princess was brought up till she was 17, when she went to live at Wied. Here Prince Oscar of Sweden met her when she was 20 years of age, and the two were wed June 4, 1857. Last month their golden wedding anniversary was joyously celebrated throughout Sweden. From her childhood Queen Sophia has been modest and unassuming, and although she comes of one of the oldest reigning families of Europe, who had a powerful name as far back as the twelfth century, she has refused to allow her royal rank to set up a barrier between herself and her poorer countrywomen. For years she has been the victim of poor health and has devoted her time more to charitable work than to the court functions. She is the mother of four stalwart sons—King Gustav, Prince Oscar, Prince Carl and Prince Eugen.

WEB OF MODERN INTRIGUE IS UNFOLDING AT VENICE

Countess Tarnowska And Two Of Her Lovers On Trial For The Murder Of Her Betrothed.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Rome, Dec. 11.—Great public interest is displayed in the trial now in progress, at Venice, of Countess Maria Niclovyna Tarnowska, who, with two of her lovers, is charged with the murder of her betrothed. The case lacks none of the sensational and romantic elements usually found in the modern novel.
The Countess is of Irish descent, and was born in Kioff in 1879, a daughter of Count O'Rourke, whose family emigrated to Russia from Ireland, and a schoolgirl of seventeen when she eloped with Count Tarnowski, but quarrels soon followed.
Quarrelling with her husband, she carried on an intrigue with one of his friends, and, desiring to torture the count, kissed her lover in his presence and before a company of guests. The count shot his betrayer dead on the spot. The scandal in Kioff was immense, but no punishment fell upon the countess.
Divorce proceedings followed, and the countess's lawyer, Prilukoff, a married man, and one of the most eminent men of his profession in the city, became violently infatuated with his client. On her divorce in 1902 he abandoned his wife and his career and fled with the countess. Together they visited London, Paris and other cities.
On their travels the countess met Count Kamarski, a former administrator, who had been serving in the Japanese war. He proposed marriage and was accepted.
Meanwhile a young man named Naumoff, a Russian aristocrat and son of a prominent Russian official, had met the countess and come under her spell. She gave him encouragement, and he followed her from place to place. Prilukoff, maddly jealous both of the count and of Naumoff, was with difficulty kept in control by the Countess's wiles. All four met in Vienna in August last. The countess and Prilukoff had adjoining rooms at a leading hotel. Count Kamarski occupied rooms on another floor, and Naumoff, in despair at being unable to see the Countess, stayed at another hotel not far distant.
A plot for the murder of Count Kamarski was now evolved. He was menaced by terrorists and had insured his life for $100,000 in favor of the countess.
The countess decided to throw in her lot with Prilukoff, and the insurance of the count suggested the possibility of securing money for their future happiness. The murder of Count Kamarski was therefore decided on. They cast about for an assassin, and the countess found one ready to her hand in the jealous Naumoff.
Towards the end of August Count Kamarski went to Venice. The countess summoned Naumoff, showed him shameful letters purporting to come from the count, and played on his jealousy until he swore to kill his rival. He went to Venice early in September and fired five bullets from a revolver into the count as the latter lay in bed in his villa.
Prilukoff, with two private detectives, had followed Naumoff, intending to declare that he had been sent by the countess to guard her threatened fiancé. But Prilukoff's presence in Venice at the time of the murder was found suspicious and he was arrested on his return to Vienna. He accused the countess and she was also arrested.
Recently the prisoners were extradited from Vienna to Venice, where their trial is now proceeding. The countess has not lost a particle of her self-possession and good spirits, and when not in court passes her time smoking cigarettes and reading novels.

Simple and Logical.
A few have observed what he thought a lack of patriotic enthusiasm in one of the boys under his instruction.
"Now, Tommy," said he, "tell us what you think if you saw the stars and stripes waving over the field of battle." "I should think," was the logical reply of Thomas, "that the wind was blowing."

No Country for Tobacco Users.
In Abyssinia it is considered a crime and nowadays even foreigners have to be careful not to be seen smoking.

NIGHT OF RARE
ENTERTAINMENT

CONCEIVING OF MUSIC, LEGER-DEMAIN AND ANECDOTES.

ENJOYED BY TWILIGHT CLUB

Janesville Symphony Orchestra of Fifteen Played—George Stott a Real Magician—Attendance 120.

Leader of the January meeting—
Charles Homingway.
Subject—"The Influence of the Stage."

One hundred and twenty members of the Twilight Club partook of the unusually excellent supper served at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium last night and enjoyed an evening of entertainment unsurpassed in variety or quality on any previous occasion.
George M. McKoy was leader and he was assisted in the arrangement of the program by Harry H. Bliss and Fred A. Canale.

A very pleasing vocal selection by George Hatch was the first number and after the singer had responded to an encore, George Stott—traveling photographer and globe-trotter—held the attention of the audience nearly half an hour with a series of startling card tricks and amusing anecdotes worthy of a "professional." Some of his feats of legendry, such as the penning the six spot of spades on a pocket-handkerchief, contributed by Robert M. Boswick, Jr., and placed with the card under a hat, baffled the wisest of the onlookers. The story of the nervous Presbyterian minister was also a welcome contribution.

The Janesville Symphony Orchestra
of fifteen pieces, under the leadership of Miss Ellen Crandall of Milton College, who is now conducting rehearsals of this organization at regular intervals, played several splendid selections which were received with enthusiastic applause. The orchestra includes such players as Prof. H. P.
Hayner of Chicago, violin; Miss Madge Wilson of Edgerton, first violin; Truman Crandall of Milton, cello; F. F. Lewis, bass-viol; and Mrs.
F. F. Lewis, pianist. Early in 1908 the members are to give a series of concerts in Clinton and other neighboring towns and cities.

Roy Carter sang two selections which were highly appreciated and also played piano accompaniments
to some of the Victor phonograph records. Edwin A. Hickey related several humorous stories in a graphic and amusing fashion; Strolling Camp-bell of the Y. M. C. A. performed some fascinating feats in Indian chi-balancing; and the program closed with another solo by George Hatch.

Dr. C. G. Dwight of the committee appointed to take suitable action with regard to the formation of a Janesville Park and Pleasure Drive Association made a formal report regarding what had been accomplished.
Blank applications for membership were distributed, with the request that they be filled out by those desirous of giving the movement their support and returned to Samuel M.
Smith.

After deliberating nearly four hours, the circuit court jury trying the damage action brought by Kate Richter against the city of Janesville returned a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $1,000 shortly before nine o'clock last evening. The suit was brought to recover for in-erty at the Five Points by the frequent overflow of water in that locality, due to the defective condition of the sewers. Attorney M. G. Mowat represented the first party to the suit and Attorney H. L. Macfield, the de-

SUBURBAN NEWS

CLINTON

Clinton, Dec. 10.—Bernie Baldwin and wife were here last week to visit his parents and Clinton friends before going to Kentucky, where they expect to reside.

Mrs. Anna Wyman Fitzpatrick and family were here a portion of the past week. They are still residing in Milwaukee. She says that her mother, Mrs. Wyman, and sister Ida, who are in California, are well.

The bank and lumber company have been around distributing very fine desirable calendars for the new year.

The first Y. M. C. A. entertainment is to be given on Friday evening.
Mrs. Maud (Himan) and Mrs. Eva Lantz were in town last Saturday.
The ladies of the M. E. society gave their annual fair and supper in the Y. M. C. A. rooms on Saturday, at which time the greater portion of their goods were disposed of and the supper was largely patronized, nearly two hundred persons partaking of a very satisfactory meal. The total receipts were some $75, an amount which was considered to be very satisfactory.

Mrs. Mary Blake and friends attended church and visited relatives
here on Sunday.

The seniors claim that their coming entertainment is to be one that none can help but enjoy.
Jan. 10th is the date of the next meeting of the citizens' caucus, and is to be a musical program. There are to be four gentlemen, all of whom sing, play horns and upon bells.

Friday night Henderson Howk of Joliet is to give a cartoon entertainment for the Y. M. C. A. that should be largely attended.
Mrs. H. W. Cleaver is spending a portion of this week in Chicago, stopping up for the holiday trade and calling upon some of her city friends.

Mrs. Grace Eldridge and Mrs.
Mayno Rogers are making a brief
visit to Chicago this week.

The Misses Ethel and Elva Parks
of Delavan assisted with the singing
at the Congregational church and Y.
M. C. A. on Sunday, being quite a treat for all who were so fortunate as to hear them.

W. W. Deltz of Rice Lake, who was recently married to Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, a lady whose former home was at Milton, has been here with his bride for the past few days on a visit to her brother, Mr. Lasher. Mr.
Deltz is representative of the Northwestern Life Insurance company and a brother of the one who has become so noted through his long vigil over the Cameron dam and is a very pleasant gentleman to meet.

J. H. Greene and son and C. W.
Irish spent Friday in Chicago at the fat stock show.

Another new enterprise has lately been started in Clinton, being an evening lunch room, which has been opened by Lew Larsen in the room adjoining his hotel, making a specialty of catering to the wants of the people from the skating rink.

It is reported that Clinton is soon to have a new bowling alley. Nothing is at present doing for this.

The stores and windows are beginning to take on their holiday attire.
Our tobacco men made good use of the brief warm spell, but would like to see considerable more in order to give them an opportunity to get the crop down.

Tough Rohlmann of Sharon was in town Tuesday.

Mrs. Skopstad, whose funeral was held in Heloit on Tuesday, was a former resident of this locality, where a large number of her relatives and friends still live.

On Tuesday evening Mrs. Nettie Scott entertained the 20th Century
club in a very hospitable manner.
The subject considered was Egypt, and the program was in charge of Miss Louise Northrup, Mrs. M. M.
Murray, Miss Mollie Klingholz and Mrs. E. B. Krier, who made of it a highly enjoyable evening. The subject for the next gathering is to be Magazine Literature with Mrs. C.
H. Tabbs as leader, with Mrs. W. H.
Northrup, Miss Beulah Shepard
and Miss Beulah Vandorlin as assistants on the program for that occasion.

L. N. Larson was here briefly on Tuesday.

The second entertainment of the citizens' course was given by Mr.
Boughton, the magician, on Monday evening. He performed his tricks in a highly creditable manner, many of which were truly marvelous, but all were disappointed in not having the promised music, as it made some portions of the program rather tresorous.

Mrs. W. H. Cornwell, who has been a repeated resident of this place for over fifty years, has been in poor health for several months, terminating in her death on Monday afternoon. Besides a large circle of friends she leaves two sons and two daughters to mourn her departure.

CENTER
Center, Dec. 10.—Friday evening,
Dec. 13, the ladies of the German
M. E. church will hold a basket society at the home of Mrs. Mitts. The object of this social is to raise money for the Christmas treat for the S.
E. children. Everybody is cordially invited to go and spend a pleasant evening.

GREATEST DRAMATIC
EVENT OF THE YEAR

Six Hundred Offered Tribute to Artistic Performance of Madame Kallich and Splendid Cast
Last Evening.

"Mark of the Law"—a threeact drama translated by Wallace Gilchrist and Guido Marburg from the Spanish of Angel Gumbura—famous living writer of Spain and ranked by contemporary critics with both Ibsen
and Sardou and the Belgian, Maeter-Blick; played in Spain, Mexico, and South America by Maria Guerrero,
the "Spanish Sarah Bernhardt"; superbly mounted for the American stage under the direction of Harrison Grey Pike and given a splendid presentation at the Myers theatre, Janesville, Tuesday evening, Dec. 10, 1907.

The cast:
Manuel ..... Henry Kolker
Sebastian ..... Harold Kirkland
Tommas ..... Robert McWade
Morchuelo ..... Bertram Grassby
Nuri ..... Edith Tallaferra
Anton ..... Mary Hughes
Papa ..... Genevieve Hillan
Michele ..... Sonoria Aurora

With tense and breathless interest and eyes that often swam with tears,
an audience of discriminating theatre-goers—fair-sized, but not as large as it should have been—followed the fortunes of the trapped but struggling Spanish peasant girl through the diamant of wickedness and sin which the dwellers of the Catalonian lowlands had created for her and up to final deliverance by the once simple shepherd, dragged down to her from the peaceful uplands where
"God is near and therefore peace and happiness reign." There was a background of bright color, the music of guitars, the creak of castanets and the mad whirl of the dance, a merry melodrama by old "Tommas," and the shallow pretenses and snivels and goosey of the sort, to relieve the somber theme, but with it as well as with the play's symbolism, teaching that woman reaches or is kept from a high plane always and solely by the efforts of man, the spectators were little concerned. Always the attention was fixed on the anguish of the woman and the slow awakening of the guileless one from the hills.

The moment in the second act "Star-ta," outraged by the condemnation of old "Tommas," told in hollow mo-nitions the story of her wrongs, with hand unconsciously leading to the clawing nails and appeal for arms with which her mother died, clutched the onlooker like some fearful tragedy in real life. The shepherd's artless exhibition of his money hoard and story of the wolf which awakened the first glances of half wonder and half admiration in an earlier scene had their wonderful appeal and the great climaxes wherein the woman urged him to kill her and again
applied, him on to slay the Master Sebastian, swept the onlookers like a storm.

One contemplates with awe the transcendental art of Madame Kallich and marvels that it is receding so rapidly a recognition of the new-born
"modern" are fully "crowded by the crowd." Henry Kolker is superb in the role of Manuel and every member of the highest price. Little sixteen-year-old Miss Edith Tallaferra is a sister of Manuel Tallaferra, who appeared here with Madge Carr Cooke, Eleanor Robinson, and William Dodge
in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" four years ago. The latter opened her season as a star at Washington, D. C. last evening in "Polly of the Circus" by Margaret Mayo.

Those who witnessed the performance here last evening will predict similar future triumphs for the little sister. Madame Kallich was much pleased with the warmth of the reception here and presented Manager Myers with some more pictures for the theatre lobby this morning. The company will appear in Madison tonight.

MEET IN JANESVILLE ON THE SEVENTEENTH

Society of Equity is to Gather in This City to Discuss Matters.

Owing to the recent thaw and rain which has brought the tobacco in case throughout the country and has enabled the farmers to take their tobacco down from the poles it has been deemed necessary to postpone the proposed county meeting of tobacco growers which was fixed for the 15th of December. This is due to the fact that the farmers will be busy stripping the tobacco consequently will not have time to attend the meeting, but arrangements have been made with one of the new men a week some time the beginning of the new year when the arrangements will be made to hold meetings in Rock, Dane, Vernon and Crawford counties with a view of making permanent arrangements for the raising and handling of our tobacco prior to the pooling which will be done if not disposed of in a reasonable length of time.

It is rather unfortunate that it is found necessary to postpone these meetings, but it is hoped that the growers will have their tobacco in the bundle by the first of the year and be in better shape to attend a meeting than would be now under the circumstances.

The rock county meeting of tobacco growers of the A. S. of R. will be held on the 17th at the city hall in Janesville and a large crowd from various towns in Rock and Dane counties are expected to be in attendance. Four able speakers are on the program, and it is expected that arrangements will be made to hold meetings immediately after the county convention in several different places in rock county.

LEAVING THE STATE

Policyholders in insurance companies that have been doing business within the state of Wisconsin for many years and who are now leaving owing to the adverse laws recently enacted, have begun to receive official notice of the fact through the general agents of the companies and while the companies themselves will have no agents in the state they will be just across the border-line and there is no need to fear for the policies held by the insured. It is only regrettable that any state will pass laws that will drive business interests from its borders. Iowa tried the plan and compare it with Wisconsin today.

HOUNDING CORPORATIONS

The unwarmed valuation of dogs in Texas for 1907, the state comptroller reports, has risen to $11.80 a head, compared with $9.00 in 1906, an increase of 21 per cent. This rise is no doubt due to the increased demand created by the state's policy of hounding corporations.

Now Yorkers are sorry that they are not to have the Sunday theatre.

so that they can forget the rest of their troubles one day in the week and not have to sit down at home and brood over affairs.

Chicago is already patting itself on the back with its handling of the big republican convention and has strong hopes for the democratic gathering.

If the Chicago brewers mean business they can certainly close up a lot of low dives that abound in the red light district.

Out west they are moving the crops just as though there was no such thing as a financial stringency in the world.

Out in Iowa a court-martial is trying a militia officer who failed to stop a prize fight ordered stopped by the Governor.

The neat little books for recording the broken resolutions made this year and lost sight of next are now on sale.

South America appears pretty big on the map but Bob Evans hopes to be able to get around it all right.

Now York already notices the difference between the glove importations and what it was a year ago.

Secretary Strauss advocates less stringent laws relative to the coming of the Chinese. But Strauss does not have to be elected to anything.

Mr. Fish's boy went to Europe quietly and secured the proxies of the British stockholders in the Illinois Central and then took a balloon trip.

New York and Philadelphia can now sit side by side and smile as Chicago gayly cavorts around on Sunday nights with its theatres open.

Solistic banking has gone out of style in San Francisco. Pilsoe never did enjoy rumblings anyway.

Sloppy weather delights the shoe-donors just as snowy weather delights the small boy.

Of course the democrats will have to have a convention. They must nominate a candidate for vice president.

Efforts are being made to close the court-martial of General Stoessel before he dies of old age.

People will continue to economize on fresh air until someone corners the supply.

Before they get through the strike at Goldfield promises to be most interesting.

It will soon be time for the poor fellow to begin worrying about his crop.

Colonel Cody insists that he is as innocent as he looks in his big photographs.

Fresh air is cheaper than pneumonia and much safer.

THE GREAT PYRAMID OF CHEOPS.

The greatest pyramid in the world is that of Cheops, of the Olzeh group. It contains 80,000,000 cubic feet of masonry, is 450 feet high and the total weight of the stone in this mammoth monument has been estimated as over 6,000,000 tons.

2NDLY. GOOD; HONEST WORK.
Time tells the tale in all things and this only shows up the durability of his work.

3RDLY. REASONABLE PRICES.

Those injured in Monday Night's Wreck Reported to Be Getting Along Favorably.

Reports from Beloit say that the five men who were injured in the Beloit collision just south of Beloit Monday night are getting along as well as could be expected and that none of them will die as was at first thought. Engineer Homer P. Mills of Ithaca, who was severely bruised and scolded so that it was not thought he would live, is progressing very favorably and the doctors think that there is no doubt but that his life will be saved. Engineer Byrne of the passenger, was thrown from the train and severely bruised as was brakeman Sprague of the freight. Fireman Flannigan of the freight was scalded as well as bruised and Fireman Plannery of the express was injured in like manner. A local railway man who called at the Beloit hospital this morning brings favorable reports from all the injured men.

Gleanings of Gotham

Life in the Great Metropolis
Mirrored for Our Readers

FARMS IN GOTHAM ARE PAYING GOOD DIVIDENDS

NEW YORK.—That farming in this city is more profitable than it has been in a half century is shown by the rise in the value of agricultural lands on Staten Island, where in the last two years there has been a great demand for farms of almost any description. Records in the county clerk's office in Richmond show that in the last year no fewer than 90 farms have changed hands, the majority having gone into the possession of men who practice the "intensive farming" that is taught at the agricultural colleges.

For many years the old-style farming on Staten Island was supreme, and as a result the farms gave their owners no profits and many of them were practically abandoned. Several of these were purchased by New Jersey farmers, who saw in the farms' proximity to the city markets an opportunity of bettering their conditions.

These men in a few years brought their lands to a state of high cultivation, installed all the modern agricultural devices and raised crops according to the newest scientific methods. As a result of this expenditure of energy and this application of gray matter their bank accounts grew to such an extent that scores of their former neighbors in New Jersey were attracted to the island.

This influx of New Jersey farmers has already changed the physical appearance of the western and southern parts of the borough. Farms that had not been cultivated for years are now in splendid condition, waste lands and woodlands have been turned into good, arable fields and the old barnyards that five or six years ago had an appearance of desolation are filled with neatly painted market wagons, well-kept buildings and sleek horses and cattle.

With the farmers there came from New Jersey some of the customs of that state, chief of which is the annual "farmers' picnic." It was held the first time on Staten Island recently and more than 1,000 persons participated. There was a parade, led by nearly 300 horsemen; and in the procession were scores of carriages and wagons, magnificently trimmed with flowers and filled with the wives and children of those who are making farming pay almost within sight of the New York city hall.

EVELYN THAW NOT TO BE WITNESS AT NEXT TRIAL

EVELYN NESBIT THAW will not be a witness in behalf of her husband at the second trial of Harry Kendall Thaw for the murder of Stanford White. This information comes from a positive source, and it is not denied by Martin W. Littleton, chief counsel for Thaw.

Lawyers who followed the original trial closely now agree that a mistake was made in placing Evelyn Thaw on the stand and having her tell the story that traveled around the world and excited interest everywhere.

There are said to be excellent reasons for the radical change in the line of the defense for the coming trial. The least of these is that Thaw did not relish the position in which he was placed in the summing up of District Attorney Jerome.

The district attorney denounced the defendant as one who, trying to convince the world that he had done a noble thing, was not man enough to take the witness stand and say so, but hid behind the skirts of the young girl who was his wife by placing her in the witness chair to tell her story.

The more serious reasons advanced for the change of plans on the part of the defense do with the little trip abroad taken by Assistant District Attorney Garvan last summer. Mr. Garvan was District Attorney Jerome's right bower in the Thaw case. Mr. Garvan prepared the case for trial, getting all the facts together and the witnesses and all necessary documents to sustain them before the jury.

When the first trial ended Mr. Garvan was in need of rest, and he was told he might have time enough to take a trip to Europe if he wished it.

Nothing would have been thought of that if it hadn't happened that Mr. Garvan was forever bobbing up where Harry K. Thaw and Evelyn Nesbit had been together prior to their marriage in this country—in Paris, in Switzerland and other places.

By a still stranger coincidence it happened that Mr. Garvan stopped at the same places that had been frequented by Thaw and Evelyn Nesbit. Not even the picturesque old chateau in Switzerland, described in detail by Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, was overlooked. Mr. Garvan asked questions, many questions.

What Mr. Garvan learned while he was on the other side is not known, but when he returned he had a satchel full of memoranda.

Up to the time of Mr. Garvan's return nothing was heard of any great change in the plans of counsel for the defense.

PLAGUE OF EELS IN THE RIVERSIDE DRIVE SECTION

IN NEW YORK'S exclusive Riverside drive section eels are now costing about $40 apiece, in spite of the scarcity of money. This price, however, is paid not to get them, but to get rid of them, for this locality is literally suffering from a plague of eels, such as has never been known before. Insignificant little eight-inch specimens have been coming from the river into the water pipes of many apartments, causing stoppages, while the big fellows, two feet long, unable to get this far, pick out the main inlet for a whole building as a desirable resting place, cutting off the entire water supply.

One of the most exclusive apartments was without a drop of water for two days and nights owing to the eel blockade, bell-boys being pressed into the humbling service of going around the corner with a tin pail to be filled with water. Plumbers can be seen excavating to get at the blocked water pipes, and Riverside drive in spots resembles a mining camp. To go down 20 or 30 feet into the ground and then to begin hunting for Mr. Eel, who, to add to the trouble, is generally found in an expensive process, which up to date has averaged about $40 an eel. Apartment dwellers living in sight of a whole river full of water, do not relish the idea of getting a drop, and when obstructions are cleared away are not enthusiastic over the eel-infested supply.

The city has been called upon to keep all eels out of the mains, but after a vain attempt to do so has taken the position that it has no jurisdiction over eels.

COREY TAKING TREATMENT TO REDUCE AVOIRDUPOIS

"I WOULD" willingly give a year's salary to get rid of 35 pounds of adipose tissue," remarked William E. Corey, the $100,000-a-year president of the United States Steel corporation, to a Turkish bath rubber the other day while undergoing electrical massage treatment at a bath establishment.

The steel magnate's amazing gain in weight since his second marriage has alarmed his actress bride, formerly Michelle Gilman, and it is at her urgent behest that Corey is undergoing the severe astringent. Corey weighs 210 pounds, or 35 pounds more than when he married the former comic opera singer. The head of the steel corporation is five feet eight inches in height and of stocky build.

Corey appears promptly at five o'clock every Tuesday and Friday afternoon at the bath.

First, he is placed inside a box which is heated from within by 50 electric lights, in color of red, white and blue. His head alone is exposed, and around his neck is placed a huge bath towel to prevent the cold air from entering the box. Twenty minutes in the electric light compartment and Mr. Corey emerges, sweating and puffing like a porpoise.

Bob is like the boy in the moon patch who gets on the right side (the outside) of the fence before yelling "Rats, catch me if you can!" to the pursuing farmer. And John L. is very much too feeble even to pursue just now.

"There never was and there is not at present any fighter in the world that could defeat Jim Jeffries," says Bob Fitzsimmons. This is a fitting tribute from one honest, game gladiator to another. It is true that Jeffries is the best fighter the world has ever produced. It is equally true that Bob Fitzsimmons was the greatest fighter of his weight the world ever produced. If Bob had ever had the weight of Jeffries, he would have put even the mighty Jim in the pugilistic graveyard.

BRIDGE COLLAPSES; 7 DIE

DISASTER AT MIFFLINVILLE, PA.
CAUSED BY THE FLOODS.

Great Damage to Property Reported from Various Parts of the Keystone State.

Bloomsburg, Pa., Dec. 11.—High water Tuesday night caused the collapse of a new bridge in course of erection over the west branch of the Susquehanna river at Mifflinville, eight miles north of here, and resulted in the death of seven men and the injury of nearly a score of others, two perhaps fatally.

Forty men were at work on the traveler on the middle span of the structure when it collapsed. They were all thrown into the swollen river.

The bodies of four of those killed were found floating on the surface of the water entangled in the bent and twisted girders and iron work, but the others have not been found. Many of the men were caught in the rapid water and were carried a mile or more down the river before they were rescued. One of the most miraculous escapes was that of William Nesbitt, who was caught in the iron work and held a prisoner for an hour with his mouth and chin above water, before being rescued.

Philadelphia, Dec. 11.—Loss of life and great damage to property is reported from central and eastern points in the state by floods caused by the heavy rains of the past few days.

The Delaware, Susquehanna and Schuylkill rivers are rising rapidly and small streams throughout the coal regions have overflowed their banks, flooding mines, causing casualties and doing great damage to railroad and other property.

Since noon Tuesday the Susquehanna river at Wilkesbarre is reported to have risen a foot an hour and the situation is alarming. Silk mills and other manufacturing establishments were compelled to shut down and traffic is interrupted.

At Hudson, a mining town a short distance away, the surface over an abandoned mine of the Delaware and Pinebrook colliery, began to cave in and water rushed into the workings in torrents. The settling occurred along the line of the Delaware & Hudson and New Jersey Central railroads and 200 men were put at work changing the course of the stream in order to protect the railroads and prevent the flooding of mines in operation.

The water is reported high in the mines at Hazleton, and at Jeannette the town was partly flooded by the breaking of a small reservoir. The tracks of the Lehigh Valley Traction company were washed away in several places.

HAWLEY OUTLINES STATE'S CASE IN TRIAL AT BOISE.

WITNESSES ARE HEARD

Corpus Delicti Is Proved and Way Paved for Repetition of Harry Orchard's Confession.

Boise, Idaho, Dec. 11.—Charging that George A. Pettibone, the defendant at bar, is the most guilty of all those charged with causing the death of ex-Gov. Frank Steunenberg, James H. Hawley outlined the state's case Tuesday. Little effort at oratory was made by the chief prosecutor, but he plausibly told the jury what it is proposed to prove.

For two hours he spoke of what he termed the most gigantic conspiracy in the annals of crime, always keeping in the foreground the part which it is alleged Pettibone took in it.

Orchard to Testify.

The taking of evidence began at the afternoon session and before court adjourned for the day the state had established the corpus delicti, clearing the way for Harry Orchard, who takes the witness stand Wednesday, for the second time to tell to a jury his story of blood. Orchard was brought from the penitentiary to this city Tuesday evening, and spent the night in the office of Mr. Hawley, Senator North, who arrived from Washington Monday night, conducted the examination of state's witnesses in the afternoon.

Tells of the Murder.

When court convened at the afternoon session Senator North called C. F. Winn to the stand. He lived just across the street from the Steunenberg residence at Caldwell, and told of hearing the explosion of the bomb. Going to investigate, he found Steunenberg about ten feet from the gate of his home and tried to pick him up, but he was so badly mangled that it could not be done. When others arrived the injured man was carried to his home and he died half an hour later. The witness graphically described Steunenberg's condition, saying that he was mangled beyond recognition.

Steunenberg's injuries were described by Dr. J. W. Gao, who was called immediately after the explosion. John C. Rice and A. Ballantine testified to seeing Harry Orchard go in the direction of the Steunenberg residence half an hour before the explosion.

Julian Steunenberg, son of the murdered governor, testified that three days before his father was killed Orchard, who was then known as Logan, asked him when his father would return from his sheep camp.

ANDREW CARNEGIE GIVES TWO MILLION

BIG DONATION TO INSTITUTE THAT BEARS HIS NAME.

PLEASED WITH ITS WORK

Trustees Meet and Allow $529,946 for Scientific Inquiry Next Year—
To Erect Administration Building.

Washington, Dec. 11.—Andrew Carnegie has added the sum of $2,000,000 to the $10,000,000 endowment fund of the Carnegie Institute. Announcement of the fact was made at a dinner Tuesday night at the New Willard, of the board of trustees of the institute, to which had been invited a number of scientists and men prominent in public affairs.

Much Work Done During Year.

The report of the trustees showed that much important scientific work had been done during the past year and upon their recommendation a large sum, the exact figure being $529,946, was allotted for the prosecution of this work of scientific inquiry next year.

The trustees also decided to erect a suitable building at the corner of Sixteenth and P streets, Northwest, for the accommodation of the administrative offices of the institution in place of the present rented quarters.

Ex-Gov. Andrew J. Montague, of Virginia, and William Barclay Parsons, of New York, were elected trustees to fill vacancies.

Carnegie Announces Gift.

Mr. Carnegie was unable to attend the meeting and dinner but sent notice of his donation in the following letter to President Woodward:

"New York, Dec. 4.—Dear Sir: I have watched the progress of the institution under your charge and am delighted to tell you that it has been such as to lead me to add $2,000,000 more to its endowment."

"It has borne good fruit and the trustees are to be highly congratulated. In their hands and yours I am perfectly satisfied it is going to realize not only our expectations, but our fondest hopes, and I take this opportunity to thank you and all who have so zealously labored from its inception. Very truly yours, Andrew Carnegie."

Thanked by Trustees.

In reply to this letter, the trustees passed the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the trustees of the Carnegie Institution of Washington express to Mr. Carnegie the appreciation and thanks of the board upon his generous gift of $2,000,000 additional endowment for the institution."

"The trustees are deeply sensible of this mark of confidence, which they will endeavor to justify by their further administration of the great fund provided by the broad philanthropy of Mr. Carnegie for investigation, research and discovery, and the application of knowledge to the improvement of mankind."

perhaps there were neither the garments nor the air in which every farmer-maiden did her baking. But then, Sally was no ordinary farmer-maiden. She was all this, it is true, but she was, besides, grace and color and charm itself. And it she chose to bake in such attire—or, even, if she chose to pretend to do so, even though the flour was part of a deliberate "make-up?" Certainly he was not at the store that summer morning.

And Sefy was there. Her hair escaped redness by only a little. But that little was just the difference between ugliness and beauty. For, whether Sally were beautiful or not—about which we might contend a bit—her hair was, and perhaps that is the reason why it was nearly always uncovered—or, possibly, again, because it was so much uncovered was the reason it was beautiful. It seemed to catch some of the glory of the sun. Her face had a few freckles and her mouth was a trifle too large. But, in it were splendid teeth.

In short, by the magic of brilliant color and natural grace she narrowly escaped being extremely handsome—in the way of a sun-burned peach, or a maiden-blush apple. And even if you should think she were not handsome, you would admit that there was an indescribable rustic charm about her. She was like the aroma of the hayfields, or the woods, or a field of daisies, or dandelions.

The girl, laughing, surrendered the money, and the old man, taking an arm of each, marched them peremptorily away.

"Come to the house and get his clothes. Everything goes in—stovepipe hat, butterfly necktie, diamond pin, tooth-brush, hair-oil, razor and soap." They had got far enough around the corner to be out of sight of the store during this gale, and the old man shoved Sefy and the girl in front of him, linked their arms, and retreated to the rear.

"What Stephen P. Baumgartner, Senior, hath joined together, let nobody put asunder, begoshen!" he announced.

The proceeding appeared to be painful to Sefy, but not to Sally. She frankly accepted the situation and promptly put into action its opportunities for coquetry. She begged him, first, with consummate aplomb, to aid her in adjusting her parcels more securely, insisting upon carrying them herself, and it would be impossible to describe adequately her allurements. The electrical touches, half-caresses, half-dances; the confidential whisperings, so that the wild old man in the rear might not hear; the surges up against him; the recoveries—only to surge again—these would require a mechanical contrivance which reports not only speech but action—and even this might easily fail, so subtle was it all.

"Sefy—Sefy, I thought it was his old watch he was auctioning off. I wanted it for—for a nest-egg! Ah-ha-ha! You must excuse me." "You wouldn't be bid at all if you'd known it was me, I reckon," said Sefy.

"Yes, I would," declared the coquette. "I'd rather have you than any nest-egg in the whole world—any two of 'em!—and when he did not take his chance—if they were made of gold!"

But then she smiled at it. "It's worse folks than you, Sefy." The touch of coquetry was but too apparent.

"And better," said Sefy, with a jump in his throat. "I know I ain't no good with girls—and I don't care!"

"You!" she assented wickedly. "There are better ones."

"Sam Pitts?"

Sally looked away, smiled, and was silent.

"Sally—Sefy!" she finally said. "If he does stink of salt hickory, and 'most always drunk!" Sefy went on bitterly. "He's nothing but a molasses-tapper!"

Sally began to drift further away and to sing. Calling Pitts names was of no consequence—except it kept Sefy from making love to her while he was doing it—which seemed foolish to Sally. The old man came up and brought them together again.

"Ouch! go 'long and make love some more. I like to see it. I expect I am an old fool, but I like to see it—it's like old times—yes, and if you don't look out there, Sefy, I'll take a hand myself—yassir! go 'long!"

"He drew them very close together, each looking the other way. Indeed he held them there for a moment, roughly.

Sefy stole a glance at Sally. He wanted to see how she was taking his father's obviously intimate suggestion. But it happened that Sally wanted to see how he was taking it. She laughed with the frankness of joy as their eyes met.

"Sefy—I do—like you," said the coquette. "And you ought to know it, you lumpy!"

Now this was immensely stimulating to the bashful Sefy.

"I like you," he said—"ever since we was babies."

"Sefy—I don't believe you. Or you wouldn't waste your time so—about Sam Pitts!"

"Er—Sally—where you going to tonight?" Sefy meant to prove himself.

And Sally answered, with a little

no one but a diamond merchant could tell the difference. Therefore, there being no diamond merchant anywhere near, and the jewel being always immaculate, Sefy presented it as a diamond and had risen perceptibly in the opinion of the vicinage.

"And—and—Sefy—Sefy, what you got to do?"

"Do?"

Sefy had been absorbed in what he was going to wear.

"Yes—yes—that's the most important." He encircled Sefy's waist and gently squeezed it. "Oh, of course! Hah! But what yet?"

I regret to say that Sefy did not understand.

STEAMER STRIKES A CROWDED FERRY

TERRIBLE DISASTER AT NEW YORK BARELY AVERTED.

COLLISION IN THE FOG

Fall River Liner Providence Crashes Into the Baltic—Men on Later Accused of Cowardice.

New York, Dec. 11.—The Fall River liner Providence was in collision with, and but narrowly escaped sinking, a crowded East River ferry boat Tuesday night.

The latter craft lost a portion of her superstructure, and her passengers were thrown into a panic.

The Providence's prow struck the ferry boat a glancing blow on the starboard and the boats hung together long enough to permit many of its passengers to pass from the ferry's upper deck to the steamer.

Others were taken off by tug, while some remained on board. Both boats drifted down the river until aided by tugs, the ferry boat crippled by the accident and the steamer temporarily unable to get her head. The latter finally returned to her dock and the ferry boat was helped to a slip. The Providence was not greatly damaged.

Men Passengers Called Cowards.

After the accident charges of cowardice and brutality were made against the men passengers of the ferry boat. When the latter craft reached a slip she still had 75 women and children on board, while, with few exceptions, the men passengers had escaped to other boats. The ferry boat had been practically stripped of life preservers.

The accident was due to fog through which the boats, fortunately, had moved slowly.

The Providence, one of the newest and handsomest steamers on the coast, left her pier in the North river early in the evening for Fall River.

A drizzling rain that had fallen all day was followed by a fog that settled down thick as the Providence rounded the battery and moved slowly up the East river and directly into the path of the Brooklyn Union Ferry company's big ferry boat Baltic, which had left her South street, Manhattan, slip and was feeling her way cautiously to the wharf at the foot of Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn.

Disaster, Barely Averted.

Only when within easy hailing distance was the danger realized and both vessels made desperate efforts to sheer away. To their partial success may be credited the avoidance of a frightful loss of life, for another moment's delay would have permitted the Providence to cut the Baltic squarely in two. As it was, the steamer scraped the Baltic's starboard, tearing away her hood and throwing her over until her port deck was nearly awash.

The Baltic was crowded to the rails by persons returning to their homes in Brooklyn, and when the crash came there was a panic. Many women fainted, and in the scramble for life preservers it is charged that the men got most of them.

It was definitely determined late Tuesday night that no loss of life occurred as a result of the collision. A woman in fright plunged overboard, but a negro jumped into the river and rescued her.

NEGRO OUTBREAK IMMINENT.

Colored Mob Shoots Constable and Kills His Prisoner.

Columbus, Miss., Dec. 11.—Plemons county, Alabama, is about to have an outbreak among negroes, and news from that locality points an alarming state of affairs.

The trouble started Tuesday afternoon when a constable named Wiglow started from Gordo, ten miles from Carrollton, the county seat, to arrest a negro named Will Low, who was charged with stealing cotton.

After making the arrest he was not in the public road by a mob of 50 negroes, led by the prisoner's brother, who began firing. The negro prisoner was instantly killed by a shot from his own brother's gun and the constable was wounded several times, though not seriously.

The mob of negroes left the constable and prisoner for dead and retreated. Fifteen negroes are in the Carrollton jail charged with complicity in the affair.

New Orleans, Dec. 11.—A special from Gordo, Ala., says that heavily armed white men to the number of 200 have been scouring the woods for negroes suspected of starting the riot. Some of the pursued blacks were armed, and the pursuing party exchanged many shots with them. No fatalities have been reported.

Two Crushed to Death in Cave.

Lake Charles, La., Dec. 11.—The dead bodies of two men, one of whom had been identified by a bank book as J. F. Ross, of Kansas City, were found in a cave near Dequency, this parish, Tuesday. The men, who, probably, sought shelter from the cold in the cave, were crushed to death by the collapse of the roof.

HUMAN STOMACH HAS BECOME DEGENERATE

Animals Are Healthier Because of Strong Digestive Apparatus.

An interesting interview was recently obtained with L. T. Cooper, the young man, whose theory and medicines have created such a sensation during the past year.

Mr. Cooper, in speaking of the remarkable success of his medicine, had this to say on the subject: "My medicine regulates the stomach. That is why it is successful. The human stomach today has become degenerate, and is the cause for most ill health. In the horse, the dog, and the wild animals generally, you see no nerve exhaustion, no chronic debility. They are not shut up day after day with practically no exercise, and they are not able to stuff themselves with food when their bodies have not had enough work to justify it. The human race has been doing this for years, and look at the result—half the people are complaining of poor health, no real illness—just a half-sick, tired, drooping feeling. They don't really know what is the matter with them."

"I know that all the trouble is caused by weak, overworked stomachs. I have proved this with my medicine to many thousands of people in most of the leading cities of this country. I expect to do the same thing in Europe next year. This is the real reason for the demand for my preparation."

Among those who have recently been converted to Cooper's theory is Mr. Monroe Brown of 8 Hancock Street, Winchester, Mass. Mr. Brown has this to say of his experience with the new medicine: "For over seven years I suffered with catarrh of the stomach, and for the past year, I was lame with rheumatism. I attributed this to my stomach trouble, as my circulation was very poor. What food I ate would turn to gas almost at once. I would have a sensation of bloating, and would have to belch frequently to relieve this. My heart also became affected, and I would suddenly become dizzy, and have palpitations. I was tired and dull and despondent at all times. I lost a great deal of flesh, and was nervous and depressed. Talk went on for over seven years, although I spent hundreds of dollars trying to get relief."

"When Cooper was in Boston I heard a good deal about his ideas on stomach trouble. Next, one or two friends told me that his medicines had greatly helped them. I purchased some of the New Discovery medicine. Today I am perfectly well; I sleep like a boy, eat anything and have no rheumatism or heart trouble. I no longer have any gas on my stomach, and feel as I did years ago. No one could be more astonished by these facts than myself. They are remarkable, but true. This is indeed a wonderful medicine."

The Cooper preparations have been more widely sold and discussed since being introduced than anything of the kind ever before sold by druggists. We sell them and explain their nature.

WHEN THEY ARE NOT WANTED.

Some People Seem to Have Faculty for Unconsciously Butting In.

"Have you ever noticed," said the melancholy man, "how it is the vocation of certain people to get in the way—to be around when they are not wanted? I suppose that if they were aware of their calling they would feel bad about it. But, as a matter of fact, they never are aware of it, and this, probably, explains why they keep at it. Take my brother-in-law, for instance. He has a marvelous faculty for turning up at inopportune moments. If we are going to have company to dinner we can surely count on a message from him asking whether it would be convenient for his wife and himself to drop in on us. If I am anticipating a quiet hour of reading in the evening it is ten to one that I'll hear his voice in the hall. Just as I am hastening to close up my office in the afternoon he is apt to come in and establish himself for a prolonged talk. Take a hint? Such men never take a hint. They are so obtuse that they don't see when their presence turns company into a crowd. They have not learned the art of effacing themselves on occasions, and they never will. You feel sorry for them at first, but sorrow soon changes to another sentiment."

HAD NO CAUSE TO BE AFRAID.

Very Harmless "Tiger" Was Irishman's Companion in Cage.

The manager of a wild animal show was so unfortunate as to lose by death the only lion in his collection. After trying in vain to replace the loss he finally secured an Irishman to appear in his exhibition on all fours in the lion's cage, wrapped in the dead beast's skin. This plan worked well enough for a while, and the public was fooled. One night, however, it became necessary, in the course of one performance, for the lion to enter the tiger's cage. Pat pleaded strenuously behind the scenes against being sent into the other man's presence; but his employer was unyielding, assuring him repeatedly that the tiger was harmless. Though well-nigh dead with fear, Pat, after long and vigorous persuasion, at last crawled into the tiger's cage. No sooner was he in the cage than he lost what little courage he had left, and lay down, calling in a hoarse whisper, "Please don't bite me; I ain't no lion; I'm an Irishman." The tiger appeared thoroughly disgusted, and in a moment he growled back, "Shut up, you fool, so am I."—Harper's Weekly.

A Matter of High Politics.

One of the wittiest of English poets is Lord Longford, and he has also earned the reputation of being one of the worst dressed, in spite of the fact that for 20 years he has been in the Second Life Guards. The story goes that a friend once met him in Ireland garbed in a pair of continuations which were not on speaking terms with his boots, and chaffed him mercilessly about the "lucid interval" that occurred between them. But "Tommy," as Lord Longford is known to his intimates, in no wise disconcerted, blandly explained that it was really a matter of high politics. "You see, my dear fellow, the breeches are made by a tailor who is a rampant Orangeman, while the boots are the achievement of a Fenian cobbler, so how can you expect 'em to meet?"

Rats, Plague Carriers of India.

Before plague makes its appearance in a house the rat mortality generally gives warning and a case occurs among the people in a house near which rats have been found. The people have now come to know that there is some connection between the rat mortality and the occurrence of plague cases in a certain locality. The rats go about from one place to another and they carry infection from place to place and render the task of controlling plague, when it is once spread, very difficult. It is therefore necessary that the public should co-operate with the health department to destroy as many rats as possible. The rats have now stopped, and as it is the breeding season for rats, the present is the fittest occasion for a campaign against rats.—Bombay Gazette.
